View from the CHAIRMAN'S SADDLE

Hello fellow Back Country Horsemen of Idaho. I hope everyone is doing well. It looks like in some areas it has been spring-like weather and some have been able to go riding. Some of us have been teased with nice weather only to turn cold and windy and unable to ride. I'm sure there will be trails out there that will need clearing after the winter weather has gone for the year or maybe some projects unfinished last summer that can be finished this coming summer. Whatever the case may be, I'm sure we are all anxious to get back in the saddle and hit the trials and plan our summer outings.

I'd like to give a special thanks to Deborah Samovar for the many years of hard work, hours and support she has given to BCHI as our state secretary and the calendar coordinator. Deborah has now retired and turned the duties over to a new secretary and calendar coordinator.

I'd like to welcome Robin Pilkington to her new position as our new state secretary and Karen Bailey as our backup secretary when needed. Another welcome to our new calendar coordinator Marjalissa Waugh. Thank you all for volunteering your time.

I hope to see you all at our state BOD meeting March 15th and the convention March 16th 2024. The Palouse Back Country Horsemen will be hosting the meeting and the convention in Moscow, Idaho.

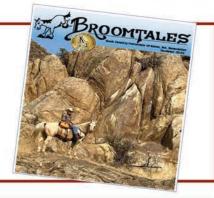

Aline Brinkmann

Thank you everyone for all you do!

Productive 2023 for Squaw Butte — by Heather Donesky, President Squaw Butte BCHI

The Squaw Butte Chapter of BCHI has events every month, but summertime is when we get into the glorious backcountry to do trail work and packing. Our leader for trailhead and trail projects is Lisa Baer and our packing leader is Dan Waugh.

During the summer of 2023, we put in new corrals at Tin Cup near Stanley working with the Forest Service and several other volunteer groups. Bart Baer and other volunteers did a lot of welding at home so that installation could go quicker on site.

We also cleared trail in several areas including Squaw Creek and Poison Creek, above Ola. Forest fires from a couple of summers ago had burned a small bridge, so among other things, we made a go-around through Poison Creek.

Dan led pack support for seven different projects serving ITA (Idaho Trails Association), PUG (Pulaski Users Group) SBFCF (Selway Bitterroot Frank Church Foundation) and other volunteer crews. Dan, Marjia and other helpers rode about 132 miles, packed around 6000 pounds and got about 82 miles of trails cleared from Hells Canyon to the Frank Church Wilderness.

We also made a trip providing pack support into the Little Queens River area of the Sawtooths. The trail volunteers were from ITA and Dan and Marjia packed in supplies on five mules and ponies plus one donkey. That trip also included a guest from Australia and seven kids from ages 3 through 16. A great time was had by all.

We hold our monthly meeting in Emmett located in SW Idaho.

Idaho Non-Motorized Trails Initiative — by Dan Waugh, BCHI Vice Chairman, Idaho Horse Board, Idaho Horse Council Trails Chairman

We have been working hard at exploring other funding source options and we think we found a better way forward. I know I have spoken to many on this and our meeting will cover more in detail.

After some discussions with Parks and Rec, we believe rebranding the State Parks Pass to an Idaho Parks and Trails pass is a good idea. This would be 100% optional but we would want to spread the word that this would be both a pass for state parks as well as a funding source for trails. I think we can get people to buy this and support the passport who normally wouldn't.

We are requesting a fee increase for both a funding source for non-motorized trails as well as increased revenue to state parks to increase state park opportunities in the future. Using the current model we could generate between $1.4M and over $2M as well as increase funding for state parks based on sales. The current proposal is to charge $25 for the annual parks pass; $5 would be for trails with $20 for parks.

We are getting a lot of support as we discuss this.

How To Find Sawyer Certification Training

To find out when sawyer safety workshops are being held, contact one of the following Sawyer Trainers (in your region) or a Ranger District.

Region 1 —Todd Brown email sawyer-coordinator1@bchi.org or call 208-451-3161 Region 4 — Rob Adams email sawyer-coordinator4@bchi.org or call 208-781-0548

Developing a Thinking Sawyer — by Rob Adams, Squaw Butte BCHI/Sawyer Coordinator Reg. 4

Tracy and Janelle are two of several women in the chapter and other trail volunteer groups, who have completed the new USFS "Developing Thinking Sawyer" course. This two-day workshop consists of a day of classroom modules and a second day in the field. Since 2019 in USFS Region 4 of Idaho several workshops have been held each spring and fall. Typically, we have ten to fifteen sawyers attending, some for the first time and others to recertify or refresh their knowledge.

"Developing Thinking Sawyers," is intended for employees and volunteers who apply for certification as a sawyer. The use of saws on National Forest System (NFS) lands is prohibited unless an individual is trained, evaluated by a qualified sawyer evaluator, and has received a national sawyer certification card.

This module-based training focuses on developing a thinking sawyer and emphasizes risk management, human factors, and sawyer safety. The evaluation process may be separate from this training to allow sawyers time to practice their skills under the supervision of an approved sawyer instructor. Completing the training program does not guarantee certification.

The USDA Forest Service "National Sawyer Training: Developing Thinking Sawyers" course outlines and describes the operational procedures for the use of saws by Forest Service employees, volunteers, and cooperators. These operational procedures are considered best practices that are designed to protect sawyers from accidental injury or death during saw operations. To engage in sawing activities, sawyers must acquire and maintain a USDA Forest Service national sawyer certification card and first aid/cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) certification. This national sawyer certification card has a 3-year expiration date and can be subject to review at any time before it expires.

The field days are where the concepts and processes learned in the classroom are practiced and refined in a safe environment with mentor coaches to ensure the sawyer is operating in a safe environment and learning to make good decisions while developing different skills sets.

There will be several workshops in Idaho in 2024, contact Rob Adams (R4) education@sbbchidaho.org and Todd Brown (R1) for more information.

Making New Friends on New Year's Day — by Sonya Allen, Treasure Valley BCHI

The TVBCH New Year's Day ride at Wilson Creek in the Owyhee Mountains was a great way to start out the new year! As a new member, I wasn't quite sure what to expect or how many people would be there. At around 40 degrees, it turned out to be a beautiful day! I was amazed at the turn-out – the whole parking lot was full with some overflow. There were a mix of horses of all different breeds and colors, mules and even a draft horse. The people accompanying their horses were just as varied from all different walks of life and ages – all very nice and friendly.

Everyone broke out in small groups to ride on the many different trails in the area. Some of the trails were rocky, while others were sandy and easy for barefoot horses to navigate. The mountains and rock formations in this area are beautiful! Several riders also got to see a large herd of deer traveling across the mountain-side.

Justin Stucker brought his wall tent with a wood stove where tables were set up with food for a potluck after the ride. A fire was built outside under a tripod with a dutch oven full of chili. The food was plentiful and fabulous! It was a great opportunity to visit with people I knew and to meet new friends.

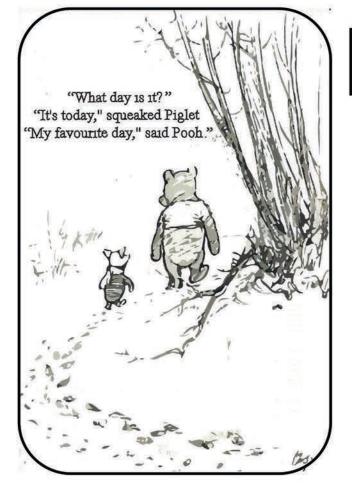

Overall, it was a wonderful day with a great bunch of people, can't wait to do it again next year!

The Adventures of Otis and Sierra the Wonder Dog!! — by Abigail Burley, Salmon River BCHI

Something really incredible happened recently that is share-worthy. It is one of those stories that I like to tell, but I never want to have it happen again, as is often the case with adventures.

My 11 year old son and I went on a nice, easy trail ride near where we live and took along Sierra and Otis the dogs. Sierra is very meek and obedient and she typically stays very near me while I'm riding the horse. Otis is a now 21 month old Lab with boundless energy. He is the type I gladly take with me riding or hiking, in hopes that I can actually wear him out. There is also a satisfaction and joy for me watching the dogs run and play. They are so happy, and being with their person, even happier still. We recently "adopted" Otis from a friend who was moving away and sadly could not bring him. He is my son's dog now, and they absolutely love each other. They have the same exuberant energy and love for life. We are just figuring some of the things out with him, as he is still pretty new to us. Sierra we adopted as a pup about four years ago. She is super smart, but pretty timid and she and Otis seem to be kinda friends, or maybe more of a big sister, annoying little brother relationship; but they did not appear to be friends to the extent I witnessed that day.

We live in the mountains of eastern Idaho, which typically gets cold around the end of November and stays cold till April. This year was unseasonably warm into the late fall. We were riding by Hyde Pond in the late fall, and the pond was partially frozen, but the deep part still had a thin layer of ice. As we finished our ride and rode back to the trailer, we were riding down a steep hill toward the pond with the dogs running in front of us. As we passed by the pond, Otis the big yellow Lab went barreling across the pond after a deer on the other side, broke through the ice, and fell in. He struggled and struggled to get out, but kept breaking back through and falling in. I don't know how much time had passed with him in the ice water, but it seemed like an eternity. I could tell he was getting tired and discouraged. I was calling for him and starting to panic, thinking about how to get him out without falling through myself. There was no buoy or anything around for me to throw to him to hold onto. The pond itself is pretty deep and has a muddy, silty bottom. We've ice-fished there before in the deep of winter, but this was early December, not February. I made my son promise not to try to go into the water to save Otis. I had him hold the horses while I went as close as I safely could to get to the dog in the middle of the pond. I was calling and calling as hard as I could, praying one of those panicky, tearful prayers. Sierra saw my distress and raced across the ice to Otis and jumped into the hole in the water with him. She nudged and pushed his shoulder, trying to help him get out—that is how it appeared, at least. I don't know whether she was trying to help me or to help Otis, or both of us. I was so worried at this point, thinking that I would lose both my dogs. Then by God's mercy, Sierra was able to climb out! Seeing his little friend get out, Otis seemed to get a new energy and confidence, and gave a great effort to get out—and thank the Lord!! —gave one last heave and made it out of the ice water!

They miraculously seemed okay. They were cold. Poor Otis was biting his paws as he warmed up. I'm sure they hurt. They ran home along with us to the truck and got warm while we drove home. They seemed well, so we continued home and when we got home, they sat in front of the fireplace recovering for the rest of the evening. Goodness. Sometimes I really don't deserve grace—but we sure got it in droves that day. —And now Sierra has a new name: Sierra the Wonder Dog!!

Hitching Post Project — by Steve Simmons, Eagle Rock BCHI

Steve, Tim, Kris, Christy, Joe & Aline

The Eagle Rock Chapter of the Back Country Horseman has taken a special interest in Harriman State Park in Island Park, Idaho. It is a beautiful place to ride but it has seen increasing use for the last several vears.

One of the more popular areas in the park is Golden Lake in the north part of the park. It is a popular place to tie up for riders to take a lunch break. Up until recently the only place to tie a horse has been to one of the trees. This scrapes the bark off of the trees and endangers the tree.

In September 2023 several members of the ERBCH spent part of a day installing 4 hitching rails at Golden Lake. Joe Brinkmann spent several hours preparing the post, sawing out notches and bending metal to fit around the post.

The EBCH provided the rails, posts, and braces to hold the rails in place on top of the posts. The posts were buried 3 feet into the ground. We were assisted by Assistant Park Manager Joseph Blackburn who, 5 months after the fact, is still talking about how pleased he and the Park staff is with these hitching rails.

We all had a great time installing these hitching rails and had many laughs during the 3 hours or so we spent on this project.

Ranger Creek & Indian Tom Creek Trail Ride — by Steve Cooper, Twin Rivers BCHI

Six members of TRBCH rode down Ranger Creek (trail started in the shadow of Wenatchee Guard Station in the Blue Mountains). This ride was along a fairly nice trail in steep but beautiful canyon country. There were switchbacks to navigate along the open hillside and when we reached the crossing at Ranger Creek part of the horses drank a bit.

We traversed along the hillside well above Wenatchee Creek on a ribbon of a trail that led us above several rock ledges that always cause me discomfort as we pass through. Connie, who led us along the ride, would point out points of interest and I would reply - I'm not looking - because I wouldn't pull my eyes from the adequate trail tread, watching where every step would be (I wonder how my pack horse made his way without my helping him decide where to put his feet).

Whew, completed that section of trail, crossing a handful of muddy spots, not always in good spots, where horses needed to cross without stepping or slipping off of the trail.

We turned up Indian Tom Creek, missing the logical stopping point for lunch. We voted on a couple potential lunch stops before finding a decent spot we could tie the six horses and a mule while we ate, they welcomed the rest - all stood quietly.

Like the descent down Ranger Creek the climb up Indian Tom Creek had some pretty steep climbs. Connie stopped often enough to rest our horses. The closer to the end of the trail we got the nicer the trail became. Horses watered at a water trough then made one last long steep climb to the ridge top followed by a mostly level walk back to the trailers. Back by 3:30, a 5-1/2 hou ride.

Rod and I rode this loop a couple weeks before this chapter ride, cutting trees across Indian Tom Trail and one out of Ranger Creek (Forest Service Trail Crew had cleared this trail earlier in the summer) so on this warm sunny day we enjoyed a clear trail.

I enjoy riding in the mountains, sometimes I enjoy the challenge of a more difficult trail. I really like riding with friends. Ardel, Connie, Billie, Michelle, Rod and I have shared lots of trips and many, many trail miles together.

The next Chapter ride is October 7th, a comfortable ride from Kruze Meadows. Make your plans to ride that day!

Good Fellowship at Wilson Creek — by Nancy Farnsworth, Treasure Valley BCHI

A slight breeze from the west, mixed with a hazy sky made for a perfect morning for a New Year's horseback ride at Wilson Creek Trails. Wilson Creek Trails are nestled in the Owyhee foothills between Murphy and Marsing, in southwest Idaho. The Treasure Valley Backcountry Horsemen were accompanied by many new and prospective members as well as members from other backcountry horsemen chapters. The parking lot was full of horses and horse trailers with no room to spare. All were saddled up and ready to ride by noon. Clad in warm clothing and hats, each rider rode off in groups of two to ten horseback riders to enjoy the rugged terrain of the Idaho desert.

As the groups returned into camp, everyone could smell the three pots of chili cooking on the campfire. Justin Stucker set up his tent with a wood burning stove. Bill Murphy made his famously delicious chili. Rhonda Kelleher made her amazing chicken chili. Bill Bell made a delectable shredded chicken chili. After the riders tied the horses back at their trailers, we all gathered around the campfire with lawn chairs, sharing good food, good laughs, reconnecting with old friends and making new ones.

Mid-Winter Trail Ride — by Pat Bogar, Twin Rivers BCHI

On Monday, January 29th, our weather here in the beautiful Lewis/Clark valley was predicted to be 61 degrees, so Rod Parks made a few phone calls and Ardel, Pamela and myself joined him on a ride which started about 13 miles up Asotin Creek. This trailhead has a non-motorized vehicle gate and is on WA Fish & Wildlife property. We rode up the Charlie Creek drainage and being down in the bottom of that canyon turned out to be mostly in the shade, with plenty of ice and snow on the old road trail and cool temps the whole 14+ miles of the ride. Coats and layers were necessary for sure and we all did well.

We did find a nice bench in the sun with good tie up spots for our critters (2 mules and 2 horses) to have a very warm and comfortable lunch. However, as soon as the sun went behind the hill, we mounted up and headed back to the trailhead.

Pat and Maddy

The afternoon ride back down the canyon was definitely warmer than the morning ride up. This canyon has some real need for chainsaw work due to a fire a few years ago. We were able to ride around all but one spot of downed trees.

Dave, a Fish and Wildlife employee, stopped and visited while we were unsaddling and we let him know about the big downfalls. Perhaps they will beat us to them!

We were all happy to get a great mid-winter trail ride in with way better than normal weather.

Hope to see you on the trails.

Norman and Marie retired in 2000. They had been married for fifty years when Marie passed away on October 29, 2005. Norman stayed on the farm until 2013 when he moved to Jerome. He

Please Welcome Our New BCHI State Secretary

I was born to a ranching family that bred foundation quarter horses and raised Hereford and Limousin cattle. My husband was medically retired from the military in 2014 after 8 deployments and 19 years of service in the Navy, Marine Corp and Army. We moved to North Idaho shorty after where we still raise a few foundation quarter horses. Our daughter and two grandsons joined us in 2021 and now live just a few miles away. I work part time as the bookkeeper for our local volunteer fire district and the finance manager for a neighboring city as well as being a caregiver to my husband. We are both leaders for our local 4H and serve at the local rodeo association. We have been members of the Priest River Valley Backcountry Horsemen since 2016, helping with officer positions as well as starting the annual fundraiser, a horseback scavenger hunt that we hold each September at Priest Lake.

I am honored to be a part of the state chapter, taking on the role of secretary. I look forward to serving our local chapters and supporting our state chapter to the best of my ability.

Please feel free to reach out to me by email or phone.
